Dear Vince,

Terrific, and I enjoyed reading about your travels-to-be.

We will see you on Sept. 14th at 10:30a.m. From prior emails, I know that in addition to me, Craig and Casey will attend. Martha Hankins and and Lon Kissinger have a lot on their plates, but they are warmly invited if they have time. Verna's pervading, benevolent spirit will be there with possibly a physical presence. Wonderful!

We await the location advisory from Verna.

Thanks to all,

Nayak

P.S. Casey is expecting twins to enter his family, so if that happens, we will need to move way down on his list. But, let's proceed with the meeting and adopt a resolution of congratulations to him if he can't come.

Dear Nyak,

Thank you for setting up a meeting so that I can learn about progress on the study that has taken place since our last meeting. I look forward to learning a great deal. I also look forward to meeting Craig again.

I think that meeting at 10:30 on 14 Sept will work out well. Also, I did note a small possibility that I would be out of state on that date, which I think now is quite small. I am part of an international team advising the Russian organizers on the coming APEC meeting in Sept in Vladavostock. While, I was asked to be available to attend, at this date it is unlikely, in my opinion. Instead, I have a firm invitation for a post meeting in Moscow, in mid October. This is preferable from my perspective so that I can stop in Iceland and forward my research projects there, scoot to Stockholm and on to Moscow. That's more information than you wanted, I know.

In summary, I have put the 14th, 10:30, on my calendar and look forward. Verna, I assume that you will arrange a room, etc. Nyak, of course, I will be happy to meet any of the other possible participants you mentioned.

Hi Vince,

I hope that your adjustment back to this time zone and the inevitable mountain of catch-up are going nicely. I have such good friends in iceland,

and it is a very unique country. I hope you have good memories.

I am wondering if we can pin down a time to meet on Sept. 14, a date that looked good to you. The two other essential parties are Craig McCormack, who is very involved on behalf of WA Ecology and whom you met, and Casey Olives,

a UW post-doc statistician who served as the formal reviewer of my report.

They have both agreed to meet on the 14th, with the morning preferable for

Casey. Others who may wish to join to listen in, if they are available on the chosen date and time, are Martha Hankins, Craig's boss at Ecology, and

Lon Kissinger, an EPA scientist who is intimately involved in water quality

regulation.

The goal of the meeting is to go over the content of the report (in outline form) and Casey's suggestions for revision. Your comments would be very valuable.

How about Friday, Sept. 14, at 10 or 10:30 in the morning in your area? I think that it would last 1-1.5 hours. We can set 1.5 hrs as an absolute upper limit.

That date works well for me, since I will be in Seattle only during Sept.

12-24, returning to Seattle again not until late October, which would be too late for everyone.

What do you say? If the proposed time works for you, I will let others know.

Best wishes,

Nayak

Hi all,

Thanks for the email Nayak. I am sorry if I was hard to reach, but I am certainly here now. Nayak, we can set a day if you like but I have some unpredictability in my schedule re being in the state. So, if you will be here in that interval I will be able to choose a day that fits us all since my schedule will be flexible. So, for now, suppose we choose Friday, 14 Sept. and see how it goes.

I hope all is well and look forward to our next meeting.

Hi Vince, welcome home. Verna let us know that you are here. You were lucky to spend time in Iceland--a very, very beautiful place.

I tried to reach you by phone, but I think that your phone numbers are enjoying the sabbatical too much to follow you back!

So, email.

I am working from out of town (NY) until about Oct.
20, but I will be in Seattle from Sept. 12-24. Are there some good times to meet with you? Craig

McCormack (cc on this) may want to join us. Can you select some potential times for meeting during 9/12-24? I can bring you up to date on our report

and seek your wisdom.

Warmest regards,

Nayak
